Hundreds mourn Daniel

Roads closed as crowds turn out to remember hugely popular

HUNDREDS of mourners packed a parish church yesterday at the funeral service for a popular young footballer and reggae music fan who died suddenly aged just 24.

Daniel Boyle, of Elm Close, Haverhill, known to his friends by the nickname Dogger, had been working as a steel erector in Bristol when he was found dead in his hotel room on October 11.

St Mary's Church in Haverhill High Street was filled yesterday morning with about 500 people turning out to pay their respects to Daniel, whose coffin was blue in recognition of his beloved Chelsea football team. He was also a great fan of reggae music and Jamaican culture, so much so that he posted his Facebook address as Runaway Bay, Saint Ann, Jamaica – the place where his mum Jane Roach and stepdad John were married.

Police closed off roads in the town centre so that the huge crowd of mourners could walk from the church to the cemetery in Withersfield Road for the burial service. Daniel's favourite song, One Love by Bob Marley, was played at the end of the funeral service.

The Rev Janice Ward, who conducted the funeral service, said the huge number of people who had attended was a testament to the person Daniel was, before his life was so tragically cut short. His father Frankie, mother Jane, sister Sheree and twin brother Ben could take comfort that so many had joined them in their sadness, and celebration of his life.

MP's dualling quest backed

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

CALLS by an MP for the A1307 – often dubbed the road of death – to be dualled between Haverhill and the A11 junction have been supported by the town's Chamber of Commerce.

West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock spoke of his commitment to campaign for the controversial change at a meeting in Haverhill on Friday.

His suggestion previously sparked opposition from the A1307 Action Group, which has for many years been calling for safety improvements on the road. Its death toll has reached more than 30 over the past 13 years, with the latest victims Joshua Bysouth, 13, and his grandfather Michael Kidd, 66, both of Saffron Walden, who died in September.

At a joint Haverhill Chamber of Commerce and St Edmundsbury Borough Council annual business ratepayer's meeting, Mr Hancock cited improving Haverhill to Cambridge transport links as one of his key objectives. He also indicated that the local community should not give up on the improvements needed for the A14, which also impacts on Haverhill and its businesses.

Mr Hancock said: "I am told over and over again about the importance of dualling the A1307. All evidence shows connection to the national dual carriageway network is vital to an area.

Fuel prices also in spotlight

SPIRALLING fuel prices, the town's retail offering, improved broadband and plans to pedestrianise the high street were some of the other issues discussed at a business meeting in Haverhill.

The Haverhill: Growing For the Future event, which took place at Genzyme, was a jointly organised by Haverhill Chamber of Commerce and St Edmundsbury Borough Council as its annual business ratepayers meeting.

Chamber chairman Sarah Howard said: "Fuel prices are astonishingly high in the town compared to our neighbours, and even compared to some parts of London. I would like to see Sainsbury's look at its fuel prices again, as they lead the benchmark for the rest of the town. Businesses are being penalised by extraordinarily high prices that are being set locally."

Guest speakers at the event included Neville Reyner, chairman of the Greater Cambridge and Greater Peterborough Local Enterprise Partnership, and Alex Till, chief executive of the Mid-Anglian Enterprise

"St Edmundsbury has it as a medium-term goal and we need South Cambridgeshire District Council to be told how important it is."

Sarah Howard, Chairman of Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, said: "The dangers of the A1307 are ever clear to me every time I venture out of Haverhill towards Cambridge.

"We share the view of our MP Matthew Hancock that we need a realistic strategy towards transport links between Haverhill and Cambridge.

"I know of two companies who have lost out on Agency (MENTA). MP Matthew Hancock also spoke about his support for the new Haverhill Research Park and welcomed news that BT's Haverhill fibre broadband upgrade will go live early next year.

Sarah Howard told businesses the chamber's priorities should be in lobbying for lower fuel prices, working with Mr Hancock in improving transport links between Haverhill and Cambridge, and continuing to lobby for a better retail offering in the town. The chamber will also play its part in ensuring views on controversial plans for pedestrianising the high street will be heard fairly.

Geoff Rivers, CEO of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, spoke about the Haverhill Shopper Project, a new project with the University Kent to increase footfall and customer satisfaction which will include market research and masterclasses. He also spoke about how the council is continuing to try to find a balance between heritage and development for the Gurtens site and the need to educate Haverhill's children for the future.

potential employees because, in both cases, neither was prepared to commute into Haverhill due to the number of accidents on the A1307. Action is needed and we back Matthew Hancock in his long-term objective of dualling the A1307 to the junction with the A11."

Trial for man who denies raping boy

A MAN who denies a series of sexual offences against a young boy – including rape – is due to go on trial next January.

Benjamin Waldron, 37, of Strawberry Fields, is due to stand trial at Ipswich Crown Court on January 3, after appearing there last Friday, when he pleaded not guilty to 11 separate offences.

He denies three offences of rape against a boy aged under 13 in Haverhill between May 2004 and December 2009. Waldron also pleaded not guilty to five offences of sexual assault against a male aged under 13, two offences of indecent assault and one of causing or inciting a child to engage in sexual activity.

Those offences are alleged to have been committed in Haverhill between May 2004 and December 2007. Judge David Goodin told Waldron that he would continue to be granted bail until his trial, which is expected to last for four days.

Natural causes verdict on prisoner

AN inquest jury has decided that a prisoner died of natural causes.

Vijay Sharma, 57, died at West Suffolk Hospital on May 6, 2008, having been discharged from the same hospital on April 1 of that year.

The prisoner from Highpoint in Stradishall had a perforated gastric ulcer which led to a blood stream infection that caused multiple organ failure.

The jury returned the verdict at The Athenaeum in Bury St Edmunds on Monday afternoon.

Pumpkin-carving fun is spooky stuff

HAPPY faces and scary ones were created by youngsters attending a pumpkin-carving event at their local leisure centre.

A total of 17 children aged between 3 and 10 years along to Haverhill Leisure Centre with their parents to join in the activity, which was part of the centre's half term programme. Staff member Stacey

Parker said the children were each given a pumpkin and dug out all the seeds and flesh from inside. They then drew a face on the pumpkin, which centre staff used knives to carve out for them.

Stacey said: "We did it last year and it was very popular so we held it again and it was a great success. Some of the younger ones drew happy faces and the older ones wanted scary faces. They all had a great time – they loved it and thought it was brilliant.

"It was just our arms and necks that ached as we had 17 pumpkins to carve and it was quite hard work."

Tributes as Daniel, 24, is laid to rest

■ From Page 1

She said: "Daniel's death has been a huge shock to everyone. People of his age are not expected to die. It reminds us of how fragile and precious life is and how we must cherish it.

"Daniel will be remembered as an adventurous person, as hard-working and caring. He travelled all around the country working as a steel erector, but he was a local lad at heart and it is only right that he is now back here in our community."

After the service, Daniel's dad, Frankie, said: "It was a fantastic tribute to him. I was not surprised to see so many people there because I knew how many friends he had. This boy was so loved and liked. He cared about everyone. He was decent and loyal to the core and I do miss him."

Mrs Roach said: "He was the kind of boy who had time for everyone and anyone and always put a smile on the saddest of faces. He always wanted to, and did, party as much as he could."

Daniel played for the Punch 68 football team and his team mates paid tribute to him by dyeing their hair ginger, holding a minute's silence and releasing balloons before a recent game.

Daniel's uncle Danny Boyle, manager of the Punch 68 team, said: "He was a lovely lad, everyone liked him. People started putting up post-it notes for him at the pub and by the end of the evening the wall was completely covered in them."

Policeman hurt in attack outside pub

A POLICE officer was seriously injured after stepping in to break up a disturbance outside a pub.

PC Michael Potter, a Safer Neighbourhood Team officer, was assaulted during the incident outside the Bell pub in High Street, Haverhill, at 11.40pm on Friday.

The officer was left in agony after his shoulder was dislocated, moving about two inches out of its normal position. He will be off work until after Christmas.

His colleagues helped move PC Potter until an ambulance arrived to take him to hospital. He was discharged from hospital later the same day, but is not expected to be able to resume his duties until the new year.

Insp Peter Ferrie, Haverhill's newly-appointed police chief, said PC Potter had been in great pain from the injury, which happened as he fell to the ground.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

He said: "This was a very serious injury to PC Potter and I wish him a speedy recovery. The job he was doing was a very necessary one and we need constables out on a Friday and Saturday night to keep our streets safe. We will continue to deal with any incidents of disorder in the High Street very forcefully."

"Other officers were there at the time and other response officers arrived on the scene very quickly."

Sgt Sarah Bartley, who was one of the officers at the incident, said they had been separating two groups involved in a fracas outside the pub, when one individual continued swearing at officer and would not obey public order warnings to stop or to leave the area.

She said: "He resisted arrest quite badly and in the melee PC Potter fell to the ground and ended up with a dislocated shoulder and a minor injury to his hand. The individual was then arrested and taken into custody in Bury, where he calmed down."

"The incident at the pub had already calmed down and there was no reason for this to have happened. We don't want to arrest people. If they would just stop swearing and go home, it would not happen."

Inspector Ferrie said seven officers attended the incident, which did show the value of recent changes in policing policy for SNT and response officers to work more closely together.

Autumn lamb makes great curry

Welcome to the launch of a regular new column by Haverhill chef Hannah Jones, who will be sharing recipes and highlighting the very best of local produce. Hannah, who lives in Eastern Avenue with partner Matthew and young children Georgia and Jamie, is a former West Suffolk College student and chef at The Plough in Hundon and The Swan in Lavenham. She runs her own business making bespoke cakes and pastries, www.hannahsbuns.co.uk.

THIS week I travelled to Wash Farm in Sible Hedingham. I've been to this farm many times with my children to pick strawberries, but this time I was there to speak to one of the farmers, Shirley Stevenson.

Shirley and her husband Peter have been producing pick-your-own (PYO) strawberries since the 1980s and it is very popular, but I was there to find out more about their autumn lamb. I decided to do my recipe using this particular meat. Shirley was very kind and took me to see their rams. They were lovely and so friendly. It was interesting speaking to Shirley; she had three rams and each one would be able to impregnate 50 to 60 ewes.

Autumn lamb is

Lamb curry made using the lovely fresh autumn lamb from Wash Farm
Serves 4-6 people
800g Lamb cut into small pieces

- 300ml plain yoghurt
- ¼ tsp turmeric
- 1 tbsp chopped fresh ginger
- 1 garlic clove (cut very small)
- 1 tsp cumin powder
- 2 tsp coriander powder
- A pinch of salt and pepper
- 3 tbsp olive oil
- 1 large onion (Chopped finely)
- 1-2 green chillies
- 1 tsp garam masala
- Handful of fresh coriander.

different to spring lamb – it has a stronger taste and is great to use in curries and stews. However, because of its strong flavour you can use a lot of herbs and spices without it interfering with the flavour of the lamb.

First you need to marinate the lamb in the yoghurt, turmeric, ginger, garlic, cumin, coriander and salt. Leave to marinate for as long as possible.

Heat the oil in a non-stick saucepan and add the onion and chillies and brown them 6 to 8 minutes. Add the meat and the marinade and cook over a low heat for 3 minutes. Cover and cook over a low heat for about an hour, giving a stir now and again. Add a little hot water from the kettle if it looks like it is getting dry.

Once tender, stir in garam masala, adjusting seasoning if need to. Then stir in the coriander serve with rice or couscous.

The autumn lamb is hung for 7-10 days. This is normal for lamb; it's not as tender as spring lamb so it does need to be cooked a bit longer. You can buy the lamb at Wash Farm in portions or as whole. If you buy a whole lamb it works out cheaper. I really believe in buying local produce as much as possible especially when it comes to buying my meat. I care about how animals are treated and I believe their life should be as good as it can be before they are killed.

I am supporting the campaign for buying British pork as I have seen what happens to the pigs in other countries. Wash farm is a great place to take the children where they can see first-hand animals in their natural environment and they can pick their own strawberries in the summer.

Wash Farm also sell gooseberries, cherries, blackcurrants and asparagus. They have another farm in Shelford producing British pork.

Please have a look at their website for more details at www.washfarm.co.uk.

Housing is in the spotlight

TWO new housing schemes which provide a total of 26 homes for older people or those with learning disabilities are to be visited by Haverhill's MP.

Havebury Housing will welcome West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock to two of its supported housing schemes in the town tomorrow to celebrate Supported Housing Month.

The campaign, led by the National Housing Federation, is taking place throughout October to raise awareness of the supported housing sector. Havebury has 16 sheltered housing schemes, enabling older people and those with learning difficulties to live independently with access to help via an alarm system.

Havebury chief Executive Karen Mayhew said Mr Hancock, Cllr Anne Gower and other guests will visit two of the partnership's newest supported housing schemes.

She added: "We will be visiting River House in Chalkstone Way which is a scheme of nine apartments bringing much-needed homes to a former brownfield site. These one- and two-bedroom properties have been life-changing for residents."

"The scheme is the result of much hard work between Havebury and adult and community services with strong support from St Edmundsbury Borough Council, Suffolk County Council and the Homes and Community Agency, without whom it could not have proceeded."

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The group will also visit Horace Eves in Withersfield Road, which has provided 17 new homes in a scheme of mixed tenures. "It combines home ownership with general-needs lettings and includes accommodation for adults with learning difficulties," she said.

During the event, visitors will take time to honour the life of Judith Hawkshaw MBE, left, who was a leading figure in the development of supported housing in Suffolk through her work with adult and community services.

Mrs Mayhew said: "We will mark the sad passing of such a strong character whose commitment to housing in Suffolk was truly outstanding. Both the Horace Eves and River House schemes are testimony to why her work should be continued."

Meanwhile, Havebury has announced the launch of a new 0300 number which will make it more cost-effective for tenants to contact the partnership to report a repair, pay their rent or speak to their neighbourhood advisor.

Ring 0300 33 00 900 will cost the same as calling a regular telephone number. For more information, visit the new-look website www.havebury.com.

It's a pyjamarama for children's charity

SCHOOL uniform was replaced by pyjamas and slippers for the day as two schools boosted the funds of a children's charity.

Children from Place Farm Primary School and Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College in Haverhill celebrated Humphrey's Pyjama Week and raised more than £1,000 for The Children's Trust.

Humphrey's Pyjama Week invites children to wear their pyjamas to nursery or school for one day during the week and give a £2 donation for Trust.

There was also a best dressed bear competition, with lots of students and staff of all ages taking part.

Alison Weston, community cohesion co-ordinator, said: "I am really proud of all of our students across both of the partnership schools. They made a massive effort to turn up in PJs and with their teddy bears on what was a cold and wet October day. It just goes to show how far our youngsters will go for charity."

The Children's Trust is a national charity providing care, therapy and education for children who are disabled as a result of an accident or illness, or for children who were born with multiple learning disabilities and complex medical needs. It is also the UK's leading centre for children with acquired brain injuries.

Anyone who witnessed the collision or saw the Polo on the A143 is asked to contact PC Andy Smith on 101.

Chay Allen, 19, of Eden Road, is due to appear at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court tomorrow.

Council link to save millions

THE senior management of Forest Heath District Council and St Edmundsbury Borough Council are to be merged.

The decision was made after St Edmundsbury council met on Tuesday night and agreed to the proposal, after Forest Heath did the same last week.

It is believed the move will result in the appointment of an independent chief executive, which will lead to more than £2m in savings.

The jobs of David Burnip, chief executive at Forest Heath and his counterpart, Geoff Rivers at St Edmundsbury, are in the balance until this decision is made.

Mr Burnip said: "The aspiration

BY EMILY NICE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk is to have some of the new senior management positions started by the end of March, but it will be a few months until a new chief executive is appointed.

"Both councils need to save money and this process should make savings of around £2.3m across both councils after year one. At the same time it will enable us to carry on providing high-quality services and it gives us a degree of resilience."

The councils first started exploring the idea of sharing services such as communications, HR and ICT when the Government stopped proposals for any form of unitary government in Suffolk in December 2009.

The decision will also mean job losses as both management teams are scaled down into one.

Mr Burnip added: "Inevitably, some jobs will be lost but it is impossible to say at this stage how many."

"Neither authority has large teams of people but obviously in the face of having to make cuts to our resources, you get to a point where there is a question mark over which services people want."

"This result has to be seen as a positive outcome."

"All local authorities are having to look at how to make savings and this action will protect frontline services for residents and so, from their perspective, it has to be good news."

New county chief in £50m savings drive

A NEW chief executive at Suffolk County Council will be helping the authority to save £50m over the next two years.

Deborah Cadman has been appointed as the new chief executive of the council, coming from a post as chief executive of the East of England Development Agency.

She has 28 years' of public sector experience, including a six-year role as chief executive of St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

She will take the Suffolk County Council helm as the authority works to save £50m over the next two financial years, and will also be responsible for leading the redesign of the way the council works, protecting frontline services and keeping council tax down. She said: "I'm delighted and honoured to be offered this role which for me is the most exciting job in Suffolk. "The political direction at Suffolk County Council is clear and I want to work with the leadership, and with staff, who I know have a genuine commitment to delivering for the people of Suffolk."

"Throughout my career I've been committed to making a difference in the public sector. I'm going to use my experience and passion to make a difference for of Suffolk."

Don't blame nursing staff, blame society

Sir, hospitals are under fire, or at least nursing staff are. Hospitals are for people who are ill or need operations. The idea is that they get well and then go home.

They are not homes for old people who can no longer look after themselves. The finger of blame should be pointed at successive governments who have got rid of old folk's homes.

Councils should take their share of the blame, too. Councils have to fund old folk's homes and day care centres, but the taxpayer funds councils. In Camps Road there is a unit of a day centre, a home for the frail and a social services centre. It looks like they are for the chop.

The people who now need looking after are most probably the ones who have seen it all, people who have lived in great danger during the war, regardless of if you were servicemen or women or if you were civilians, they had no benefits. Don't blame nursing staff, blame society.

Thank you to all the animal lovers

Sir, I would like to thank your newspaper and readers for their amazing response to an appeal for animal bedding.

I would also like to thank Sainsbury's of Haverhill and Kedington Stores for setting up animal food collections to help the rescued creatures at Jaybeth. The patrons of both stores are great animal lovers. Thank you on behalf of the animals.

We hope you'll come to our open weekend on November 5 and 6 from 2pm-4pm when you can meet the animals that you have helped.

MEMORIES

■ OUR archive details are sketchy for this week's picture, which shows children and what looks like a giant bear, so we're hoping for a good response to this one.

Last week's Memories photograph, from our archives, was taken in September 1992. It prompted an email from Sally Payne, who said: "I was a member of the New Image Majorettes. We were performing outside Lloyds Bank, I believe, and from left to right is Jacquie, myself, Sally Payne was Sally Farrant, behind me Suzanna and then Louise."

We've received a further response to our memories picture of October 13 from Gill Payne, who emailed in a copy of the original article, left.

She said: "The picture was taken in 1992. I was the special constable cycle coding Gerry Taylor's bike. You can see when it was taken from the date of the paper clipping; February 6, 1992 at the sports centre in Haverhill.

Thank you for bringing back good memories!"

Minister gives out top marks

THE Education Secretary has given two Haverhill schools his seal of approval after they were turned around by their headteachers.

Michael Gove visited Samuel Ward Academy and Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College to see how the schools have transformed to a newly formed academy and an all-through school respectively.

Following tours of both schools, Mr Gove said he felt the strengths lay with the headteachers.

He said: "In a nutshell it's the headteachers; they both have a clear vision of how both of them arrived and saw the potential that was there at both schools. Haverhill is a town on the up and that's being driven to a great extent by what's happening in its schools."

Mr Gove was given a car tour of

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The Castle Partnership, which includes Place Farm Primary School, The Clements Primary School, Burton End Primary School, Communications Faculty@Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College and Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College main site.

He admired how the all-through system of teaching 3- to 19-year-olds in one partnership works well.

He said: "I think all-through is the right way forward. I think we have had problems in the past as a country in the relationship between primary and secondary schools. We have had children arriving at secondary school not ready for the challenges they face."

The Castle principal Madeleine Vigar said that Mr Gove asked the school to carry out research over the next few years to see how well the system fares.

She said: "We have offered to do research showing how all-through education raises standards."

She was also delighted that the Education Secretary approved of its vocational curriculum saying that rather than hinder learning in academic subjects like English, maths and science, it complements them as students enjoy the subjects.

Matthew Hancock, MP for West Suffolk, accompanied Mr Gove on the visits. He said: "The fact that Michael Gove has visited Haverhill's two main schools shows his commitment to understand what is going on here and throughout the day he has been asking the question 'how have you managed to achieve what you have done', taking two schools that were not doing as well as they could and turning them into outstanding schools."

BUSY Matthew Hancock is defending his title as the MP who walks the furthest during his work in Parliament.

The West Suffolk MP has again entered the Silver Star Health Challenge, which aims to raise awareness of diabetes and health issues around it. MPs taking part will wear a pedometer until next February to measure how far they walk during their work in Parliament.

Mr Hancock took part in their shorter competition earlier this year and was thrilled to be the MP who chalked up the most steps.

As the defending champion, Mr Hancock is rising to the challenge and is determined to out-walk his colleagues in their bid to raise awareness of diabetes.

He said: "This is a fantastic initiative, and I am really pleased to be involved. With the Olympics approaching, there has never been a better time to raise the importance of a healthy and active lifestyle – both to fight diabetes and to promote our general health."

"Silver Star is a fantastic organisation, and I am glad to support their work. I am also keen to protect my place as reigning champion. It will be the stairs not the lift from now until February."

ACTIVE MP Mr Hancock put on his running shoes to take part in a 10-mile run on Sunday.

Mr Hancock completed the Thurlow 10, a run in the countryside around Thurlow organised by the Haverhill Running Club.

He said: "It certainly blows away the cobwebs on a Sunday morning. The Suffolk countryside is stunning at this time of year, and it was a beautiful autumn morning to be out running."

"All credit must go to the organisers from Haverhill, it was a great event."

Ruth's thumbs-up from Dr Hilary

A SUPER slimmer reached the finals of the Slimming World awards after shedding half her body weight. Ruth Bruty, from Haverhill, slimmed down from 18st 11lb to 9st 6.5lb after joining her local dieting class in January 2009.

She became one of just 48 women across the UK to reach the finals of Slimming World's Woman of the Year 2011 competition.

TV doctor Hilary Jones co-hosted the event and congratulated Ruth on losing 9st 4.5lb.

Hilary said: "It's wonderful to see Ruth looking so lovely and healthy and hear all about her weight loss. I hope her story inspires lots of other people in her town to follow her lead and transform their health too."

Ruth says her new look has given her a lot more confidence after years of struggling with her weight.

She said: "I'd tried so many times and so many ways to lose weight before, usually depriving myself of the foods I enjoy, counting calories and going hungry, so inevitably my attempts failed miserably."

"I decided to have one last try and luckily I found Slimming World. It was completely different to anything else I'd tried."

"If ever my motivation did start to fade, my consultant and the rest of the group were there to remind me how far I'd come. We talked and laughed a lot. Now I'm slimmer and more confident – so much more confident that I cycle and jog regularly too, when before I lost the weight I did no exercise at all."

The group, which is run by Slimming World consultant Julie Collis, meets every Tuesday at 5.30pm at Haverhill Ex-Servicemen's Club.

Julie said: "Ruth is not only looking great, she's added years to her life and become a role model in our local community. Her success is inspiring other people in the group and Haverhill to turn their health around and help us beat obesity in the area, which is good news for everyone."

You've been framed: winning photographer Brian Peters and David Doughty, of The Gallery, present the framed picture to Abby Mayes, Hospice corporate fundraiser.

Brian puts hospice in the picture

AN autumnal photograph of a National Trust beauty spot has won a competition and will hang in St Nicholas Hospice.

The photo of Stourhead, in Wiltshire, was taken by Brian Peters of Haverhill and entered into a fundraising contest run by The Gallery in Lower Downs Slade.

Brian, who had never before entered a photographic competition, said: "I was very pleased and surprised when I found out I had won."

The competition was held by The Gallery as part of its efforts for the Towergate Accumulator Challenge, which saw businesses compete to turn £50 into as much money as possible. In total, £40,000 was raised for the hospice.

Everyone who entered was asked to pay a £2.50 entry fee, but some donated more and the competition raised £260.

Abby Mayes, hospice corporate fundraiser, said: "Brian's picture will certainly brighten the hospice walls."

Public speak out over plans to slash budget

INCREASED parking charges, including charging blue badge-holders, have found support with the public – but not cuts to voluntary, arts and community grants.

These were just some of the views revealed in a public consultation exercise by St Edmundsbury Borough Council, which faces a £3.5m budget cut over the next two years.

More than 900 people sent in their views on a range of possible cost-cutting or income-generating proposals put forward by the council.

The consultation showed support for increased parking charges in Haverhill, as well as introducing parking charges for Nowton Park in Bury St Edmunds and parking charges for blue badge-holders.

There was a 50/50 split in views on increasing car park charges in Bury St Edmunds and on charging for the Abbey Gardens toilets in Bury, 46 per cent said yes and 52 per cent no.

The public supported continued CCTV monitoring, sharing services and more web-based services, transferring ownership of community centres to local communities, keeping the current park ranger service, continuing to run a tourist information centre – but closing it for one day a week, moving it to Moyses's Hall and reducing the hall's opening hours.

The public did not support a 20 per cent cut over four years in voluntary arts and community grants, charging for extra help to make applications, cutting community-based work, such as safety advice for children, community events and attending residents' associations or reduced levels of planting, floral displays, tree replacement and grass cutting.

Council leader Cllr John Griffiths said: "Your views have already made a difference to our budget proposals and we will continue to listen and respond throughout the coming months."

Two men who deny affray charges will face crown court

TWO Polish men facing affray charges following an incident at a nightclub have been sent to crown court for trial.

Marek Tabak, 34, and Lukasz Zuk, 27, both said to be of Eden Road, Haverhill, deny charges of affray at Bar Vu in Jubilee Walk, Haverhill, in June.

They appeared before Bury St Edmunds magistrates on Tuesday, when their case was sent to Ipswich Crown Court, where their trial is due to take place in January. Zuk was granted unconditional bail until his next court appearance, but Tabak's bail was on condition that he does not enter licensed premises in Haverhill and does not go to Jubilee Walk.

Teens run off after being spotted setting fire to paper at shop

FOUR teenagers were seen running away after setting fire to paper behind a shop.

Police are appealing for witnesses to the arson incident at the rear of the Iceland store in High Street, Haverhill, at 11.15pm on Saturday.

The four teenagers were seen lighting paper in the rear courtyard area, then they ran off as police officers approached them. Some damage was caused to the brickwork at the back of the store before the fire was put out.

Anyone who saw the incident or who has any information about it should contact Haverhill police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers of 0800 555 111.

We're 'in lap of gods' as fire control merged

A NEW combined fire control covering Cambridgeshire and Suffolk has gone into operation in Huntingdon for the first time.

The control centre, at Hinchbrook, is the first of its kind in the UK and is designed to save Cambridgeshire £400,000 a year.

But the Fire Brigades Union remains sceptical that the scheme, which includes deploying fire engines in the two counties, will work. Buckinghamshire could also join the project and Kevin Napier, secretary of Cambridgeshire, said this could lead to a back-door establishment of the scrapped regional fire control plan.

Mr Napier said: "Our main concern has been to achieve the best outcome we can for our members and we believe we have done that. Now we have turned to the technology and whether it is going to be reliable or effective. We are in the lap of the gods."

concerns remained the loss of local knowledge for operators covering an area they were not familiar with and that Cambridgeshire would have to take on the maritime and nuclear power station role that Suffolk had.

He said the proposed further merger with Buckinghamshire could be seen as a back-door way of achieving the collapsed regional control scheme which had cost £550m.

Mr Napier said the union did hope that the combined control would work as planned: "I would rather be proved wrong because lives and property are at risk."

A number of jobs were lost in Suffolk among staff who chose not to move to Huntingdon. Operators of the new combined control will be based at the fire and rescues service headquarters in Huntingdon and in addition to dealing with 999 calls in the two counties, they will deal with inquiries from members of the public.

A spokesman for Cambridgeshire Fire and Rescue service said: "It offers a more resilient, cost-effective, but tried-and-tested mobilising system to the communities of Cambridgeshire and Suffolk which has the further capacity to be enhanced in the future."

The combined control started taking Suffolk calls on Tuesday with the merger process taking place during the day and evening.

Foreign office quiet on Judith

THE Foreign Office has refused to comment on the fate of Judith Tebbutt, who was kidnapped in Kenya last month – despite the death of a French woman abducted from the same region.

French officials said they believed Marie Dedieu, 66, who was snatched 21 days after bandits killed 58-year-old publishing executive David Tebbutt and forced his social worker wife into a speedboat at gunpoint, has died in captivity.

Like Mrs Tebbutt, Mrs Dedieu was disabled – she used a wheelchair and was being treated for cancer, while Mrs Tebbutt is deaf and relies on hearing aids.

Mr Tebbutt's murder was met with shock in Haverhill, where he grew up and still had many friends.

The kidnappers pounced as the Tebbutts, who lived in Bishop's Stortford, Hertfordshire, enjoyed their first night at a luxury beach resort on the Lamu

Shock at David's murder

Flashback: how the Weekly News reported the murder of David Tebbutt and abduction of his wife Judith last month.

archipelago near the border with the war-torn east African state of Somalia. Mrs Dedieu was taken from the same area.

Prime Minister David Cameron has publicly pledged to do everything possible to secure Mrs Tebbutt's release, but this week a Government spokeswoman was tight-lipped about any progress.

She said that the official position remained that media coverage of the case was not being encouraged in order to minimise Mrs Tebbutt's value to her captors. Instead, she referred to the only statement issued by the Foreign Office so far, released shortly after the Tebbutts' ordeal was revealed.

Son Oliver, 25, flew to the Kiwayu Safari Village shortly after his father's death, but has also not spoken publicly about the tragedy and his mother's plight.

It is believed Mrs Tebbutt is in the hands of one of three Somali groups: the al-Qaeda-linked al-Shahab group, pirates or a gang of other criminals.

Halloween warning to youngsters

TRICK-or-treaters across Suffolk are being urged to act responsibly this Halloween – and warned that they could end up in court if they misbehave.

Officers from Safer Neighbourhood Teams have visited local schools and are asking shops to display posters stating that flour and eggs, which are sometimes thrown at houses, will not be sold to under-16s who are not accompanied by an adult in the run-up to Halloween.

Copies of a poster for people who don't want to be bothered by trick-or-treaters can be collected from police stations or downloaded from www.suffolk.police.uk.

Chief Inspector Kerry Cutler said, "We are not trying to spoil the fun of Halloween but we would like trick-or-treaters to recognise that some people, particularly the elderly or vulnerable, might be distressed by strangers knocking at their door during the evening."

Proof there's good life on the other side of breast cancer

Feeling positive: Louise Stevens who was diagnosed with breast cancer at the age of 35.

LIFE is good for Louise Stevens. She has a job she loves, a close network of friends, and she recently got engaged to long-term partner Richard: when she shows off her sparkling engagement ring, she is all smiles.

But Louise has been through some incredibly tough times. Almost 14 years ago, she saw her beloved mum lose a hard-fought battle with bowel cancer. Seven years ago, Louise herself was facing breast cancer – diagnosed when she was just 35.

"One of my friends said 'If you can get through all that and come out the other side, you can get through anything,'" says Louise, with a wry smile. "I miss my mum like mad: I was her only child and we were very close.

"And, in a way, going through breast cancer was like a bereavement too; I knew I wasn't going to be the same person afterwards. For a while, I felt like I'd lost my identity. I'd always been very independent and quite feisty: one of my friends used to call me 'the feisty short demon! But suddenly I wasn't that person any more.

"For me, getting over the cancer wasn't necessarily about being strong and brave. It was about learning not to pigeonhole myself as 'someone who's had cancer'; to define myself by that.

"It's a cliché, I know, but you do learn to live with it. Some days I still think about cancer, but some days I don't think about it at all – and that's brilliant."

Louise, now 42, is sharing her story to mark Breast Cancer Awareness Month, which runs throughout October, and also promote the Addenbrooke's Pink Rose Appeal. Held in aid of the Cambridge Breast Cancer Research Unit, the appeal encourages local people to organise all kinds of events, from tiny tea parties to grand dinner dances, to raise funds; last year's Pink Rose made an incredible £65,000.

Louise, who lives in Cherry Hinton, organises an annual Pink Rose Party Green: held in the front room of Suzy's Ely home, they get together with friends to play bingo, do a raffle, drink tea and eat cake.

"Suzy and I have been friends since we were 16 and we're like sisters: when I was ill, she was always coming round to make the bed, do the Hoovering, sort me out some lunch... She was amazing.

"Suzy's little boy, Mitchell, has the genetic disorder Barth Syndrome, so our parties are now joint fundraisers: we split the proceeds 50/50 between the two causes. We've already raised £2,000 for the Pink Rose Appeal. If we can do it from Suzy's front room, it proves that anyone can do it."

Louise's experience of cancer began in 1982 when her mum, June, was diagnosed with a colon tumour. Thanks to treatment, June went into remission – and stayed there for 13 years. But then, in the mid-90s, the cancer came back; two years later, June died.

"I was quite naïve about it, to be honest: I didn't realise just how ill she was – or didn't want to realise, I suppose..."

"After she died I thought that nothing could hurt me. I was so devastated. Whatever happened in life, in relationships and that kind of thing, I thought 'This can't hurt me any more than I hurt already'."

In the summer of 2004, shortly before her 35th birthday, Louise noticed a sharp recurring pain in her left breast and decided to go to the GP.

At the time, Louise thought she had no family history of breast cancer; research has since shown a strong incidence of both breast and bowel cancer on her mother's side.

"The GP said it felt lumpy and referred me to the breast clinic. I went about a week later for a mammogram, ultrasound and biopsy. They said then and there 'You might have breast cancer', but, being naïve again, I thought that might be something they told everybody.

"I went back for the results and the moment the oncologist introduced himself my heart sank. He said 'You have got breast cancer. And you need a mastectomy'."

"To be honest, a lot of that is quite vague.

"Surreal" is the word that comes to mind, time and again. At that first appointment, I actually felt like these people weren't talking to me, that there must be someone else standing over my shoulder."

Telling her dad was, admits Louise, especially

Flower power

● With breast cancer now affecting one in eight women at some point in their lives, nurses, surgeons, oncologists and scientists from Addenbrooke's are urging people within the hospital's catchment area to host a fundraising Pink Rose Party, ideally during October – breast cancer awareness month. Every year, money generated by the Pink Rose Appeal goes directly to the Cambridge Breast Cancer Research Unit at Addenbrooke's, where it helps fund life saving clinical research trials. In 2010, Pink Rose supporters generated more than £65,000 for the Cambridge unit through dinner parties, coffee mornings, auctions and other special events.

Statistics show 80% of women treated at Addenbrooke's for breast cancer will live for at least 10 years after diagnosis, exceeding the national figure of 72% and on a par with some of the best breast cancer centres in Europe – largely because of Pink Rose Appeal funds. Gemma Downham, Pink Rose Appeal Manager, says: "Every year we are amazed by the efforts of ordinary people who give up their time to fundraise, donate raffle items and pledge their hard earned cash. Year after year our Pink Rose Party hosts stage fabulous events that raise huge sums of money. Each has a different story to tell but everyone has one thing in common: an unwavering determination to beat breast cancer – a brutal disease that still claims the lives of far too many women." Supporting the Pink Rose Appeal is simple. All you have to do is plan a get together with friends, family or colleagues – and ask them to pay their way on the day. It could be a dinner, picnic, tea party, cake bake, lunch or, if you like, something much more spectacular. For more information or to obtain a fundraising pack, contact the Pink Rose team on (01223) 217757 or by email at act@addenbrookes.nhs.uk

Police battle rogue traders

POLICE officers in Suffolk have joined a UK wide initiative to crack down on rogue traders and doorstep sellers.

A recent campaign, including a national day of action, saw police officers, trading standards officers and members of government agencies join forces targeting rogue traders and high-light dangers that consenting to have work carried out by cold callers can bring.

Suffolk Constabulary supported this initiative by utilising its automatic number plate recognition (ANPR) intercept team and associated specialist resources.

During the initiative six arrests were made with an additional 42 other offences being uncovered. Some of these offences relate to trading standard, HMRC, and UKBA offences. About 100 vehicles were stopped and checked.

Goods and property totalling about £16,000 were seized and revenue fines in excess of £1,500 were applied for fuel tax evasion.

Partnership co-ordinator for Suffolk Constabulary Alan Osborne said: "Rogue traders and distraction burglars prey on the elderly and vulnerable in our communities, stealing or conning them out of vast sums of money.

"These people will often travel vast distances across the country to commit offences and they are often linked to other predominantly rural crimes such as metal and fuel thefts."

Householders are urged to 'stop, chain and check' when faced with cold callers at their door, to double-check their identity with their organisation.

To report suspicious activity or suspected rogue traders or bogus callers in your neighbourhood call Suffolk Constabulary on the new 101 number.

difficult: "He didn't want to believe it. First he'd lost his wife to cancer, now he could lose his daughter to the disease too..."

Scheduled for a mastectomy and simultaneous reconstruction, using a flap of abdominal tissue and skin, it was a mammoth 10-hour operation. Before going in for the surgery, doctors warned Louise she could need chemotherapy afterwards. As she had no children, they offered to freeze some of her eggs; chemo can result in infertility. "I decided to cross that bridge if and when I came to it."

But the operation was a resounding success: surgeons excised all the cancerous tissue, and tests on Louise's lymph nodes showed the tumour hadn't spread. As a result, there was no need for chemo.

In hospital for nine days, Louise was kept in a warm room, cocooned in heated blankets, a technique used to keep a steady flow going through the blood vessels (if the vessels collapse, own-tissue reconstruction can fail).

"When I came out, my half-sister Bernie came down from Scotland to stay. I couldn't do anything for myself; even climbing the stairs to go to the loo took 10 minutes, because every step hurt."

"For a very independent person, it was hard learning to ask someone to do the simplest things, like get me a glass of water or make me a sandwich."

Thanks to the care of her family and friends, physio to get her tummy, chest and under-arm muscles working again, and her own determination, Louise made a great physical recovery.

"I thought I was doing really well. Then I just hit a wall. That's the only way I can describe it... I was incredibly emotional – I cried all the time – and nothing anyone said could comfort me. One day I realised I couldn't go on like this, so I got on a bus and went to the Wallace Cancer Care centre at Addenbrooke's."

"I walked in, sat down, and just cried and cried and they made me tea and listened. After that I was referred for counselling, which I had for several months. You don't want to talk to your friends like that, because you don't want to upset them; it was a real relief to be able to unburden myself to a professional."

Then, just before she was due to return to work – as a legal secretary at Ameer Meredith in Cambridge – her relationship of one and a half years broke down. "I wasn't the same person he fell in love with," Louise says, simply. "I was an emotional wreck."

Describing her bosses as 'brilliant', Louise says she was given another two months leave; in that time came Christmas and New Year – when she first met Richard, the man who's now her fiancé.

"At the time, absolutely the LAST thing I wanted was another boyfriend," she laughs. "But we met again with a group of friends, then he took me out for dinner... Eight months later he'd moved in."

Although Louise hadn't needed chemo, she was prescribed a pair of anti-cancer drugs, Zoladex and Tamoxifen, which effectively shut down the ovaries and enforce menopause (she had a type of milk duct cancer which fed on oestrogen, so, to lower risk of the cancer recurring, doctors wanted to stop her body producing female hormones).

Aside from the hot flushes, Louise says she didn't mind taking the medication: "It was like a safety blanket. When they told me I didn't need to take the Zoladex after three years I was actually really upset: it felt like they were taking the safety net away."

But meeting Richard – and being made godmother to a friend's little girl – made Louise think hard about having a family. At that stage, getting pregnant was still a possibility: as Louise came off the anti-cancer medication, her periods returned.

"Richard was lovely. He said 'If you want a baby, we'll have a baby'. But, as much as I wanted to have a baby with him, I was too scared that, with all the hormones flying round my body, the cancer would come back – and then Richard would end up bringing up our baby on his own..."

"In the end, I decided to have my ovaries removed, to lower the risk of the cancer returning as much as possible."

Signed off by the oncologist two years ago, Louise now feels positive about the future. "It's 14 years since I lost my mum and seven years since I had my surgery. Richard and I are engaged and one day we'll get married – we might even go to Vegas!"

"It's proof that there is life on the other side of breast cancer – and it's a good life."

History's not a desk job...

ANY parent (in fact pretty much any human) will be aware of Horrible Histories, Terry Deary's best-selling books about all those colourful characters from our past: the Slimy Stuarts, Terrible Tudors, Vile Victorians et al.

And Terry pulls off the enviable feat of making history fun – not bad for someone who's adamant that he's not a historian.

With their hugely successful mix of silly jokes, fascinating facts and general gruesomeness, the 50-odd titles have gone on to spawn a BAFTA-winning TV series, magazines, video games and stage shows, two of which – Awful Egyptians and Ruthless Romans – are still playing at the Cambridge Arts Theatre this week.

So, he must be a barrel of laughs, right?

He's not. He's a barrel of simmering rage; surprising, really, given that his books have sold more than 25 million copies worldwide, and he must be worth a bob or two. In fact that's where we start: just why are the books so popular?

"Because they aren't history books, they're books about the most fascinating subject in world – human beings. Why do people behave the way they do? You can never quite answer that, but history is a great way to explore the question," says Terry.

"Then the ultimate question is 'why do I behave the way I do?' And when you've cracked that question you're educated, even though it might take you a lifetime. Education doesn't start and end at school – that's why school's a waste of time."

Really? "Absolutely! How many years do you spend in school, sitting at desks learning something which is of absolutely no use to you in your life at all? When you get to my age – I'm 65 – I wouldn't mind those 15 years back, quite honestly."

"And what did I learn at school? I learned the chemical formula for hydrogen sulphide, which is H<sub>2</sub>N. I spent hour after hour, first of all being taught it, then learning it, then revising it, then putting it down on exam papers, and it's been no use to me at all. I want those hours back!" he shouts.

"Education in this country – well it's not education, it's schooling; let's not get the two mixed up – schooling in this country costs £80 billion every year. Give me £80 billion and I'll come up with an answer!"

Yikes! Now about the stage shows...

Although Horrible Histories bears Terry's name, he admits he leaves the fact-finding to others: "I'm not a historian, so researchers do it; my skill is in the retelling," he explains.

"I'm a children's author: apart from Horrible Histories I've got another 150 books out there, and it's because I'm not a historian the books are a success. A historian would say: 'I know something; sit there, and I'll tell you. Shut up.' I say: 'Cor, you'll never guess what I found out – look at this!' Plus, being a children's author, I have the right vocabulary and syntax to get it across in a non-threatening way, to such an extent that I have never been able to count the number of times parents have said 'my child had never read a book until they picked up Horrible Histories, and now they've gone on to read lots of other books.'

"That's another failing of schools – excuse my rant again – it's well proven that boys like non-fiction, girls like fiction. But how do schools teach reading? Through fiction. And then they turn round and say 'boys don't like reading'. Well EXCUSE ME, but boys would like reading if you gave them the books they wanted! It's stating the bleeding obvious!"

■ Horrible Histories is at the Cambridge Arts Theatre until Saturday. Tickets £12 children, £15 adults. Contact: (01223) 503 333 / www.cambridgearts-theatre.com.

TOMB WITH A VIEW: The Awful Egyptians, along with the Ruthless Romans, are playing at Cambridge Arts Theatre. Inset, Terry Deary.

Grand old D'Ukes...

A MUSICAL night out with a difference is offered by an Essex-based band which performs a huge variety of music on a small instrument with four nylon strings – the ukulele.

D'Ukes, pictured, give renditions of popular tracks from the likes of Johnny Cash, the Beach Boys, The Beatles, Amy Winehouse, Paolo Nutini, Mumford and Sons, Radiohead, Bob Marley and Kings of Leon, so there will definitely be something to suit all tastes.

What brings the eight diverse band members of D'Ukes together is their enthusiasm for the often under-appreciated instrument. They were formed in November 2009 by Dave Warren, a guitar and ukulele teacher based in Chelmsford, and feature singers, bass and percussion musicians. They have since played Glastonbury and appeared on several radio shows, including Dave Monk on BBC Essex and Sue Marchant on BBC Cambridge.

For their Haverhill show D'Ukes will be joined by Wendy Solomon, a ukulele-wielding storyteller from Southend whose charming and humorous set includes bitter-sweet observations and tragi-comic tales of life, love and the office sex pest.

Ukulele music has enjoyed resurgence in recent months with the Ukulele Orchestra of Great Britain selling out the Royal Festival and Carnegie Halls.

They appear at Haverhill Arts Centre on Saturday, November 5. Tickets are £8 and available from the Box Office on (01440) 714140 or the website www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk.

Back on the block

LOCAL hero Steven Adams, former lead singer of Cambridge's The Broken Family Band, returns to the city to perform as part of his new outfit, Singing Adams.

For eight years, The Broken Family Band hovered on the cusp of mainstream success with their alt-country sound, but it's early days as to whether his new outfit will go the full distance.

Their music has certainly been well-received so far, with critics likening Singing Adams's solidly-crafted, low-key indie tunes to early Belle and Sebastian, and praising the thought-provoking, often quietly spiky lyrics, which were also a defining characteristic of TBFB.

However, this time there's brass, backing vocals and more of a modern indie vibe all round. (There's even, possibly, a bit of rap influence. But just a bit).

The full set-up includes Melinda Bronstein on drums (ex-Absentee and Wet Paint), Matt Ashton on guitar (formerly of Saloon and The Leaf Library) and Michael Wood (Michaelmas) on bass. ■ Singing Adams, The Boathouse, Chesterton Road, Cambridge, Saturday. Tickets cost £7.

The big film

CONTAGION certificate 12A 106m

DIRECTED by the masterful Steven Soderbergh, Contagion is a stylish thriller which imagines the panic when a deadly new virus threatens to become a global epidemic.

Scott Z Burns's smart script zigzags across the world examining the reaction of governments, scientists and the public from myriad perspectives, unearthing personal dramas in the midst of devastating global catastrophe.

Soderbergh shows cool restraint throughout, killing off major cast with little fanfare as the virus rages.

Beth Emhoff (Gwyneth Paltrow) returns from a business trip in Hong Kong with acute flu-like symptoms. Her husband Mitch (Matt Damon) dutifully nurses her and their son Clark (Griffin Kane), who is also feeling under the weather.

Following a seizure, Beth dies and within hours, Clark is dead too.

Mitch is rushed into isolation but miraculously seems to be immune to the outbreak and is soon allowed to return home with his daughter, Jory (Anna Jacoby-Heron), who was out of town.

More cases are reported by an increasingly hysterical media and Dr Ellis Cheever (Laurence Fishburne) from the Centre For Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) dispatches one of his operatives, Dr Erin Mears (Kate Winslet), to the Emhoff house in Minneapolis to trace the pathogen. Meanwhile, epidemiologist Dr Leonora Orantes (Marion Cotillard) from the World Health Organisation heads for Hong Kong to see if Beth contracted the virus there.

In a secret laboratory, Dr Ally Hextall (Jennifer Ehle) and Dr David Eisenberg (Dermot Martin) try to grow the virus, which seems to be derived from pigs and bats, in order to engineer an antivirus, with guidance from respected academic Dr Ian Sussman (Elliott Gould).

However, conspiracy theorist blogger Alan Krumwiede (Jude Law) thwarts their efforts by spreading misinformation.

Contagion opens on the second day of the outbreak and charts the virus to the point when scientists make a vital breakthrough. Damon delivers another terrific performance while Winslet and Ehle are equally impressive and Law sports an Australian accent as the agent provocateur, who cynically believes the lethal strain could end the recession for pharmaceutical companies.

Perking up your patio

WINTER doesn't have to be drab and dreary when you've cleaned out your summer pots and put late summer bulbs such as dahlias into storage.

There's still time to plant spring bulbs in pots and if you're doing that, the best piece of advice is keep it simple.

Choose one type of bulb for each pot and you're likely to have a more eye-catching display than if you mix your bulbs, which probably won't all flower at the same time.

But there's a long time between now and spring, so how can you provide some colour?

There are a few bits and pieces you can pick up from nurseries and garden centres to fill the gap.

Pink heathers and cyclamen can make a pretty autumn planting scheme and quite an unusual hue from the normal burnt oranges, burgundies and yellows of autumn.

Go for the heather Calluna vulgaris 'Annemarie', with pale pink buds which deepen as they

by Hannah Stephenson

open and are set off by pink-flowering Cyclamen hederifolium, with its pretty marbled leaves to lighten the scheme.

Make the most of all the soft amethyst shades, combining them with seasonal blue-green foliage.

Ornamental cabbages are in season, in a mass of sculptural shapes in blues and whites, often tinged with purple.

An ornamental cabbage can make a great focal point for any hanging basket, perhaps teamed with crimson foliage of bugle (Ajuga reptans 'Multicolor').

Alternatively, try the pink and purple shades of a variety of Aster novi-belgii, which is compact, bushy and suitable for container planting.

If you have a galvanised bucket, the silver will go perfectly with the pinks, purples and bluey-green foliage shades.

Other plants which look great in silver planters include the attractive purple evergreen Heuchera 'Stormy Seas', along with the silver-leaved Convolvulus cneorum and pink Cyclamen persicum which flowers in autumn or early spring.

Container displays can be enhanced by berries of different colours. Try planting a Gaultheria – a hardy, evergreen shrub with small oval glossy green leaves – whose flowers in late spring are followed in autumn by clusters of bright, round fruits in shades of red and pale lilac, white, pink, purple or blue, depending on the variety.

Make the most of winter foliage by planting up hanging baskets with Mexican orange blossom (Choisya ternata Sundance), with its bright yellow leaves, contrasting with the dark foliage of Gaultheria procumbens, or wintergreen, which produces bright red fruit which lasts through the winter. Other colour can be added with violas, lamium and dark-leaved ivy. Some plants will be interesting now but will also flourish in other seasons – and if you want low maintenance then you could always choose a perennial to provide year-round interest.

The compact shrub Skimmia japonica 'Rubella' has oval-shaped, red-edged leaves and dark-red flower buds which form in autumn and winter, then open in late winter and early spring. A female clone, such as Skimmia japonica 'Rogersii', planted nearby, will form clusters of red berries which last until the next flush of flowers, while the hermaphrodite S. japonica 'Reevesiana', which can be planted on its own, produces clusters of bright red berries through the cooler months.

Fun autumn colour in pots can also be provided by capsciums of all kind, planted up in traditional terracotta pots.

Different varieties of red hot chilli peppers, mixed with rust and orange-coloured pansies can make a wonderful display in a conservatory.

BMW: Every engine in new 3 Series is turbocharged

THE next-generation 3 Series saloon has been unveiled by BMW.

It's loosely the same shape as the old one, but with tweaked styling especially around the front and rear light clusters.

Although the new car is bigger than the model it replaces, the biggest changes come under the skin, where a forthcoming expansion of BMW's EfficientDynamics technology will see as many as eight 3 Series models dipping below 120g/km by March 2012, when more engines are added to the four just announced.

Every engine will be turbocharged for the first time. The two petrol models are the four-cylinder 328i developing 242bhp, and the six-cylinder 335i, which pushes out 302bhp.

The available diesels at launch are the standard 320d, a 181bhp 2.0-litre unit that emits 120g/km of CO<sub>2</sub>, and the 320d Efficient Dynamics, which costs the same but has less power, taller gearing and a CO<sub>2</sub> output squeezed down to 109g/km.

Every engine turbocharged: The new BMW 3 Series.

Six trim levels will be offered – more than ever before.

ES and SE can be ordered straight away, with M Sport coming next year. New versions called Sport, Modern and Luxury will also come later.

The car is 93mm longer than the 2011 model, but 6mm narrower excluding the mirrors. Its wheelbase is 50mm longer too. It's pushing the boundaries of what can be called a 'compact' luxury saloon, and rear legroom has only increased by 15mm.

When all the new models are available next March, prices will start from £24,880 for the 316d ES, but for now the cheapest options, the 320d duo, start at £28,080.

The Hyundai Veloster Coupe: From £17,995.

Hyundai Veloster on way

HYUNDAI has released the full details for its new Veloster coupe, the only car available in its class to have a '1+2' seating layout for easy access to the rear seats.

It will cost from £17,995 on the road for the most basic four-door without Blue Drive efficiency-boosting technology, rising to £21,745 for the range-topping Veloster Sport with Hyundai's first dual-clutch transmission.

CO<sub>2</sub> outputs are typically in the 140s, but the version equipped with Blue Drive dips to 137g/km. All models of the Veloster will sit in insurance group 16E.

While every Veloster comes with the same 138bhp petrol engine, there are two models to choose from. The normal model has 17-inch alloy wheels, while the Sport ups that to 18-inch wheels with colour inserts.

The Sport also gains black leather upholstery with a heated front seat, a panoramic sunroof, cruise control, keyless entry with engine start/stop button and alloy pedals.

Both models will have a seven-inch screen allowing easy use of in-car media.

Lansdowne's road to last-gasp win

Haverhill II 20 Colchester IV 19

Suffolk League, Division Two
MICK Lansdowne scored a try seconds from the end to give Haverhill a deserved victory against a decent Colchester side.

It capped an outstanding game for Lansdowne, who thought he had touched down minutes earlier but was judged to have knocked the ball forward.

Haverhill's victory was built on an impressive forward display, well led by skipper Kieran McDonough and starring the mighty South African, Darren Carew.

From the outset, they pushed Colchester backwards and were rewarded when winger Ricky Smith went over.

Haverhill thought they had another try, but the referee ruled the ball had not been placed down, and that served as a wake-up call to the visitors.

And when Harry Marsh was in the sin-bin for raking, they scored a converted try to lead at the break and then added an unconverted try before Haverhill were back up to strength.

The home side's response was a Kevin Carr try, with Colchester replying with another touch down.

Paolo Nash sprinted down the wing to go over and keep Haverhill in touch at 19-15, setting the stage for Lansdowne to take the limelight in the final push for victory.

■ Haverhill's first team, beaten 14-7 at Bury III on Saturday, are at home to Ipswich YM II in Suffolk League, Division One on Saturday.

The second team have a league game at Felixstowe.

&gt;&gt; Football: Youth round-up

St Ives Rangers 0 West Wrattling 8

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14C

WEST Wrattling dominated from the start with their superb passing game, easily extending their unbeaten run.

The clean sheet was testimony to their gutsy defence and a midfield that not only defended, but also contributed goals from Keaton Dial, Mo Horsley, Jordan Willey, Paul Jenkinson and a long-range Jesse Luff free kick.

The other goals came from Jay Bailey (2) and Liam Gibbs, who took his tally for the season to 12. However, the side's attitude was summed up by Paul Notley, who dashed from the airport following a flight from Spain to play.

Walpole Warriors 1

Steeple Bumpstead Dynamos 4

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13E

DYNAMOS bounced back to secure their fourth win from five games.

They conceded an early goal but Steeple Bumpstead were soon level when Jamie Basham curled home a free kick.

Callum Smith gave them the lead, cutting in from the right wing and pouncing on the rebound after the keeper saved his original shot.

Both sides pushed up in the second half, making for a congested midfield, but Archie Sadler made it 3-1 and Basham completed the scoring with a low shot after a good run.

TWO defensive errors led to Rovers' depleted side making their exit from the competition.

The visitors' defence was under pressure from the start against a physically larger side, but they managed to restrict the home attack to long-range shots that rarely tested keeper Francis Ford.

However, sloppy passing gifted Billericay a chance inside the box which was duly despatched and, although Rovers stepped up a gear, they did not equalise until Chidera Nkem-Paul beat his marker to make the most of Will Bailey's pass.

Wrattling prove they are the pass masters . . .

The visitors, though, could not make the most of their spell of pressure and a defensive error led to Billericay's second. They then took charge of the tie and only some smart saves by Ford stopped Rovers from shipping another goal.

Waterbeach 1 Haverhill Rovers 2

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C

WATERBEACH proved to be more resilient than in the previous encounter and rocked Rovers, who looked to be in charge, by taking the lead.

However, Rovers eventually equalised when Billy Jarvis capped a period of pressure by scoring from a fine run and finish.

They had to wait until the last five minutes for the winner, though, Morgan Jones atoning for some wayward finishing by tucking away Sam Goodwin's through ball.

West Wrattling 1

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15A

WRATTING ran into an in-form keeper and a dogged defence who helped their side to a priceless victory.

The visitors took the lead when Ben Weedon fired a long-range shot into the net off the post, but on one of their rare breakaways, Priory got back into the game when they were awarded a penalty. Wrattling piled on the pressure, hitting the woodwork and forcing the keeper into several outstanding saves.

But they were caught on the break again and a defensive error led to the decisive third goal.

Little Paxton 4 Kedington 7

Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14B

KEDINGTON made a lightning start to the game and were 5-1 ahead at the break.

They had Little Paxton back-peddalling from the start and were soon rewarded when the prolific Ty Alayne headed in Leon Bailey's near-post corner for the first of his four goals.

His second, from a low shot, followed soon after and he added a third midway through the half.

Little Paxton got a goal but Kedington were soon on the offensive again and Owen Boddey scored with a thumping drive.

Alayne completed the first-half romp by converting a penalty he earned himself.

The home side launched a recovery with two goals early in the second half but Jason Moore and Ellis Wiffen kept them at arm's length.

Rovers back on track

■ From back page in the 75th minute when Luke Howard was beaten by a well-struck half-volley.

"I was disappointed with the result," said Haverhill manager Peter Betts. "The performance was better than the previous week, but still not to the standard we set.

"They had one shot on target and scored and it came in a period when we were on top. They got us with a sucker punch. We only had two substitutes for an FA Vase game, so we had limited options, but we still should have won.

"We've had really bad luck with injuries and suspensions. People are slowly starting to come back from injury, so the quicker they come back the better. It's important the players we are putting out, however young and inexperienced, are still performing, so I don't want to use excuses."

■ Rovers do not play again until a week on Saturday, when they face Diss Town at home in the Ridgeons League, Premier Division.

Scott it! Rovers put backs into cup win

Haverhill 3 CUP 1

Ridgeons League Challenge Cup, first round

SCOTT Lodge put his back into it at the New Croft on Tuesday to help Haverhill Rovers get their FA Vase reverse out of their system.

Cambridge University Press goalkeeper Joe Egan fumbled Jack Wilkinson's tantalising hanging cross towards the penalty spot and the ball hit Lodge on the back of the head and went in.

The strong Cambridge University Press side took a surprise lead after 15 minutes following a spell of Haverhill pressure, when Jordan Henderson pounced after Luke Howard parried Ross Patterson's shot.

The Cambridge side dominated the next 25 minutes, Jack Watson having a shot deflected and Ant Blandford, on his return to Haverhill, hitting the outside of the post with a rasping drive.

Rovers, though, gradually established a foothold in the game and Shaun Banham went close before he scored the equaliser, slipping some weak challenges to fire home on 40 minutes.

The hosts dominated after the break and when Banham was upended in the penalty area after 67 minutes Wilkinson's calmly-taken penalty gave Rovers a deserved lead. Then came Lodge's winner which sealed Rovers' place in the next round.

Felixstowe & Walton Utd 1 Haverhill Rov 0

FA Vase, first round

DAN Cornwell had an effort saved in stoppage time as Haverhill succumbed to Felixstowe & Walton at Dellwood Avenue.

The striker found the ball at his feet from Stuart Wardley's header in the dying seconds, but the hosts' goalkeeper was equal to his shot.

Jack Higgs and Greg Strong both went close for Haverhill in the first half, with Cornwell and Marcus Hunt heading over from Jack Higgs corner early in the second period.

The best chance fell to Jack Wilkinson in the 58th minute when he headed a loose ball following a corner towards the goal. But the combination of Guy Chubb in the Felixstowe goal and right-back Matthew Ryland somehow managed to scramble the ball away.

However, the home side broke the deadlock

It's all Knight in the end

Haverhill Rovers res 3

Heybridge Swifts res 1

Ridgeons Reserve League

TWO goals from Charlie Knight helped Rovers' young side see off more experienced opponents.

They made a bright start, moving the ball around at pace and scored after 15 minutes, Ryan Weaver coolly converting after latching on to Chris Claydon's through ball.

However, they committed the cardinal sin of conceding soon after scoring and it took a superb fingertip save from Michael Bavester to ensure the scores remained level at the break.

The visitors remained on top in the early stages of the second half. But they did not put much pressure on the Haverhill goal and Rovers were able to weather the storm and take the lead when Knight polished off a move from the left.

They coped well as Swifts tried to impose themselves physically on the game, eventually sealing the points when Knight scored a carbon-copy goal.

Wratting hit by exodus

West Wrating 3 Ely City res 3

Kershaw League, Premier Division

WEST Wrating's joint-manager

Brian Pilgrim admitted his side's cause had not been helped by an exodus of players before the game.

Paul Hunt, Ross Elkins and Jon Welsh are all set to join Haverhill Rovers while John Camfield is off to Ryman League club, Sudbury.

He said: "We're left with players who want to fight and I still think we've got a good side, but we've still got a lot of work to do."

Against Ely, Wrating hit back after going a goal behind with goals from Danny Hills, Craig Cutts and Luke Strutton. Two goals in the last 10 minutes salvaged a point for the visitors.
